Hello there!

Dear readers

The countless surprises of the year continue to unravel whether it be, the associate nations stomping their authority as no mere pushovers in the recently concluded T20 World Cup, or the employee reactions to the hostile takeover of the social media platform Twitter.

This edition of snapshot, it's 31st ever, covers a plethora of topics, from the wide array of activities hosted during the Swadeshi week, to the classic fashion magazines such as Vogue and JFW that have stood the tests of time.

"What is the hype about?" or "Is it something really worth watching?" The review section could perhaps quench your curiosity upon a few recent films and books, such as the box office hit Ponniyin Selvan: I, a movie made on a five volume epic spun on Tamil history.

This is further enhanced by the works of talented young minds of our school, who have let their creativity ebb and flow across a piece of canvas, translating their ideas and perceptions to a form that is left hanging for the audience to interpret.

We are always ready to consider your perceptions and ideas, be it on canvas, or in the form of an article, and we could help you portray it to a larger audience.

A Bittersweet goodbye: Farewell 2021 -2022

According to the organizers: Minsu Kim and Jyotsna, the farewell that was held on 11th March 2022, took about 2 weeks of planning. All the students were really excited to say their goodbyes offline rather than online. The event was packed and the farewell was also a reunion since it was the first event post COVID with the entire student community present.

The event began with a couple of games and a mock award ceremony which was enjoyed by all. The highlight of the event was the DJ and the dancing that followed.

' When we were planning, we were really excited'
-Minsu Kim: Organizer
'Proud to send another batch to the world'
-Chandrika Ma'am

Everyone who attended the event enjoyed it very much even though it was a bittersweet moment. It was difficult for everyone to say goodbye to their friends and move into a whole new world.

From everyone at Apl to the graduates:
We wish all of you the best of luck and we hope you don't forget us.

Grandparents Day

Grandparents are a family's greatest treasure, the founders of a loving legacy, the greatest storytellers, the keepers of traditions. Grandparents are a family's strong foundation. Through their special love and care, grandparents keep a family closely knit.

Grandparents are a great source of wisdom, values, strength and inspiration. Our objective of celebrating Grandparents Day was 'to honour grandparents, and give them an opportunity to show love for their grandchildren, and to help children become aware of the strength, information, and guidance older people can offer.

The event started with a Circle Time which included mindfulness, followed by the action rhymes for the grandparents. Grandparents were introduced after that. An enthralling performance by students left the grandparents spellbound and thoroughly mesmerized.

Musical rounds, Passing the ball, Blind fold activity , Transferring the ball, Art & Craft etc... were some fun activities organised for them. The event came to an end with a thank you card to grandparents by the children.

Grandparents enthusiastically participated in all the events. They left with pleasant memories, loads of appreciation and heaps of blessings to the school and its management.

Senior School - Cultural Show

How do we express ourselves? Each and every one of us have our own way of expressing our feelings. This year, our 11th and 12th graders put up a front of incredible performances. The cultural show took place on the 6th of August at the school auditorium. The venue was packed with friends and family.

The evening started off with a warm welcome address from our cultural secretary, Rithvik Karthik. This led to the lighting of the lamp by one of our student's grandmothers - Mrs.Rathna Shri Hari. The lighting of the lamp has been an unbroken annual day tradition. Followed by this auroral event, was the harmonious performance of the song-Maha Ganapatim. The music from the instruments and the vocals was truly welcoming and rhythmical. We had classical music, now all that was needed was a good dose of Bharatanatyam, which was presented gracefully by our students. The dance was mellow, and heart-warming. The dancer's hard work was explicitly expressed by their astounding performance.

"'Compassion opens limitless doors to human connection" our respected principal, Ms.Sarija addressed the gathering with a profound and inspiring speech explaining our 14th cultural evening's theme- What does it mean to be human? To be sentient.

Like, eyes are the windows to the soul, music is the literature of the heart, a set of lyrics is brought to life with the music composed to grow into a heartfelt song. The dynamic band and choir of our school performed . The choir opened the musical performance with the song, city of stars , along with a graceful piano solo by Hamin , then proceeded to perform two other songs , I see the light from tangled memories .The vocals were melodious and pleasant . The band gave an energetic performance starting with the emotional song - moon river and smoothly switching to hit the road jack . The performance was executed perfectly and you can hear how much effort they put into it .

Then the students proceeded to the play . The play, to simply summarize, was about a scandal about artificial intelligence and education . The talented actors said each word with great emotion and conveyed the message properly and with great comedic relief . The teams behind all of this together - the sets and props, production and costume team made sure all the details were there and everything was appealing to the audience . Everyone who worked towards this deserves great credit and kudos .

We can conclude that the annual day was an amazing event to witness. We enjoyed every second of it . The students and the teachers worked hard behind the scenes and on the stage to pull it all together . The performances were breathtaking and there's no better way to celebrate the arts and culture at school .

Teacher's Day

On 5th September, the teachers celebrated teacher's day, a day dedicated to them. There was a set of activities for them to participate in, and the student volunteers along with the student council conducted them. The student council planned the events during their meetings and with the help of a few admin staff, they got the materials they needed. Along with the activities, there was a flash mob and a band performance.

Skin Deep

Did you know that nearly eighteen million people underwent some form of cosmetic procedure in 2018? In today's day and age of body positivity and self love, people are encouraged to do whatever makes them happy and the stigma surrounding cosmetic surgery is slowly starting to disappear. Cosmetic surgery is certainly getting more popular; however, before making a permanent alteration to your appearance, no matter how modest or large, it is critical to step back from the hype and understand the benefits and drawbacks of such treatments.

First and foremost, the main advantage of cosmetic surgery is an increase in self-confidence, satisfaction and self-esteem. Have any of you felt awkward when smiling with crooked teeth? Do you sometimes try to hide the acne on your face with thick layers of make-up? If so, you are no stranger to feeling insecure and ashamed about your appearance. Although we should all learn to love ourselves the way we are, sometimes, it is simply too difficult to feel confident with our natural features. As a result, these insecurities may interfere with their social life and more importantly, their mental well-being as well. In order to avoid dealing with such severe problems with body image and appearance, several individuals choose to undergo various cosmetic procedures. In fact, studies suggest that people are usually more happy with their self-appearance after getting cosmetic surgery and report having higher self-esteem, social confidence and quality of life.

Interestingly, many people feel a sense of dissociation and unfamiliarity during their recovery from the cosmetic operation. This may cause short-term depression and anxiety. However, as the body heals, the positive aspects of the surgery allegedly become more apparent and the bruising and swelling slowly vanishes. Factually speaking, around 90 percent of facelift patients believe that their improvements were worth the pain and uneasiness they felt during the recovery process. Likewise, 96 percent of those who receive tummy tucks are extremely pleased with the long-term results of the procedure.

Moreover, cosmetic surgery can have benefits that are not even realized! For instance, research shows that not only may a rhinoplasty help you look better in photos, but it may actually make it easier for you to breathe and relieve any unnecessary respiratory pressure that you had prior to the surgery. Similarly, getting braces, which is a dental procedure which aligns and straightens the teeth, can help you chew your food better and sound clearer while you speak. Therefore, cosmetic surgeries, such braces and nose altering procedures, not only enhance your life mentally, but also physically!

Having said that, cosmetic surgery is not all rainbows and sunshine! There are definitely certain disadvantages that dissuade people from undergoing cosmetic procedures altogether. For instance, it is no secret that cosmetic surgery can cost you a pretty penny. On average, facelifts can cost around $7, 500 which is nearly an entire year's salary, while rhinoplasties are priced around $5,000. Some people can simply not afford to pay such high amounts of money, and others may simply feel like the after-effects of the surgery are not worth the cost being incurred.

In addition to this, there are several cases where people have gotten addicted to cosmetic surgery which is when altering your looks becomes problematic. This addiction may stem from a mental health issue called body dysmorphic disorder which can cause people to spend millions of dollars on face and body altering procedures, all of which may not completely satisfy them. Not only is this an unre way to use money, but it can also cause several other mental and physical issues, such as depression, excessive scarring and permanent swelling.

Furthermore, cosmetic surgery may not always lead to the desired result. Before going into surgery, many patients usually paint an unrealistically perfect image of the outcome in their minds. Their dreams are s hattered when they realize that for the first few weeks after surgery, they have to walk around with a huge bandage wrapped around the affected area. Sometimes, people are not even satisfied with the result of their surgery even after the recovery period is over. Not only can this negatively affect their mental health, but it can also make them feel terrible about wasting so much money on a procedure that did not change anything, or even made things worse.

Last but not least, when young girls see how easy it is for them to just magically change their facial and physical features, they may not even try to love themselves. This can cause several issues, such as body dysmorphia and diffidence in social settings. Likewise, seeing small button noses and plump lips, which is what society defines as the epitome of beauty, everywhere may cause them to feel inadequate and inevitably will set false standards of beauty that young girls may feel forced to adhere to.

In conclusion, cosmetic surgery changes your face and your body, so the decision should be completely yours as well! There are two sides to every coin and cosmetic surgery is no different. At the end of the day, only you are aware of what is best for yourself, so you must make your decision accordingly!

Astronomy club is an option for the students who truly want to reach for the stars. This club not only educates its students on matters from interstellar to blackhole to NASA satellites but it also encourages students to research and explore anything that relates to astronomy and peaks their interest. This club will most definitely be a valuable experience for its members

Pasta Piquant!

The love for cooking is the food for the soul! The club's mission is to encourage students who have a passion for cooking and drive healthy eating among the students. I know the second part is a bit too ambitious. The snapshot club is delighted to review this year's cookery club's first food experiment. White sauce pasta! It's a rich and creamy weeknight meal in just under 30 minutes. By the time we got there, the sauce was sizzling and the whole food science lab was aromatic. It was helter-skelter happy hour, there was milk boiling on one side, people searching for the salt, stirring and instructing. The students were ecstatic, there were two teachers guiding them through the whole process. We were especially enthusiastic to taste the food. The students took turns stirring and adding the pasta, some were grating cheddar on the side. " The students were really terrific, they chose to cook pasta and they did wonderfully well for the first time" quoted a teacher. We had a taste of the pasta from both teams - it was creamy, delicate and glazed with silky cheese. Though one team's pasta lacked salt and was speustic it was a bonne bouche! Hope the club cooks more delectable food!

THE SEASONS

The tiniest snowflake falls on the ground,
The trees and floor are white all around,
Children catch snowflakes on their tongues,
We also eat pies whose glories are unsung.
Life is good and happy here,
In winter the snow falls and to roofs adhere.

When spring comes, and trees awake,
We have lots to do, and oats to rake.
When birds sing, and animals make way,
We scream and racket to chase predators away.
Life is good and happy here,
While flowers bloom, and dew is clear.

In Summer, when the stalk of wheat,
Is cut and trimmed to look so neat,
Adults work hard all day,
There is not a reason for dismay,
Life is good and happy here,
While warmth spreads and happy cheer.

In Autumn, when the leaves turn red,
The chickens are being very well bred.
We eat only corn, bread, and milk at this time,
We grow potatoes, carrots, and even lime.
Life is good and happy here,
We play with mud to throw and smear.

And in Winter, our story comes to a close,
When we have to grant the woods adios.
Milk and eggs are in this time scarce,
It's especially cold when we go upstairs.
Life is good, and happy here,
Forevermore, no season we fear.

MANANTHALA TIMES

I called and called,
Nobody answered,
I asked my Ammachi, Why?

Ammachi said, 'under the stars,
While playing cards,
Kochammachi broke a glass!'

We cleaned up the mess,
And then changed our dress,
And punished no less,
The guilty one, Kochammachi

She had to make lunch
for the bunch
I called and saw her munch
While she made lunch!

SUNSHINE

Sunshine, Golden drops of light fall and give life a warm feeling.

Feels like something that I don't know anymore,
soft, comfy rays,
cheesy looking light.

Something I used to love.
But now, cooped up at home
like a chicken
I wish I could be free.

THE DUSK

At dusk, when the sky smudges
Pink and blue and gold, the colours blend together, sky towers
The clouds, against the sky, ridges
Into shapes and contortions, budges
Against the beautiful setting, showers
Of hued, golden, light flowers.
A single star, hanging, slightly kisses,
A pale moon, slowly, stitches,
Itself, and the stars, it nudges.

And as the breath-taking scene elapses,
So does the sky, that's old,
Suddenly becomes dark, the air cold,
The moon's light, against the frigid night,
Slowly; slowly, the moon waxes,
Always the timing it right,
Says goodbye, and the sun the moon axes.

MY Life filled with Adventure.

Hi everyone! I am Saliha Ishraq means Radiance and so am. I am 9 years old energetic girl. I was born in INDIA bought up in U.A.E, I recall enjoying every bit of life in Singapore for 3 years when I was small. Thank's to my dad's job we travelled a lot. Every time we moved from one place to other I remember mom telling me it's adventure time again so I don't feel sad. My mom was true every day of life was not less than an adventure. I am fearless girl not scared of hieghts loves sitting in the front seat of a roler coaster, had drove a jet ski by my self and had done many challenging task. Life has changed for me when we travelled back to India, as I loved my previous school a lot. I was really sad as I dint want to leave my best friend's my teacher's back in Dubai but as I told you every day is a new adventure I was 100% ready to explore. It's been 4 months we have shifted to Chennai. I am already in love with the place. I had a lot of mixed feeling about my new school but the day I attended the inter-view I was happy and eagerly waiting for first day of school. The first day of school I was nervous and also positive. My mind behaved like a ? mark, but believe me it was the best day of this year. It was a cheerful fun filled day and was glad meeting my class teacher Sneha mam, made new friends and confidently thrilled of the start of a new journey. I am quite sure this adventure would definetly build lot's of memories I would treasure for life time. Thanks for now.

SWADESI WEEK RANGOLI

Rangoli is said to be drawn to announce auspiciousness and that all-is-well in the household. It is a colourful and creative expression of Indian folk art which is drawn on the floor.

There are different rangoli powders available in the market. But in Kindergarten @ APL we decided to do something different. We made rangoli powder out of rice flour and food colour.

The recipe for Rice flour rangoli powder:

Add a little water and the food to the rice flour
Mix it nicely
Dry it in the sun for one day
there will be small lumps
Run it in the grinder
Seive it
Voila!! Rangoli powder ready

Kindergarten children celebrated Swadesi week by drawing colourful rangoli on the floor. Some of the rangoli designs were shapes, national symbols etc.,The Academic block had a festive look.

The remaining Rangoli powder was used in class for fine motor activities.

Tiger Boy

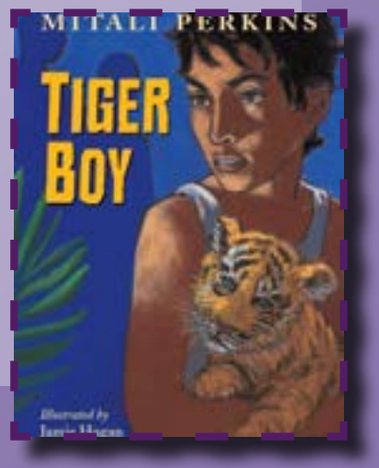
Neil, who lives with his parents and his sister Rupa in the gorgeous Sundarbans, is a smart boy studying in a local school chosen to represent the Sundarbans on a scholarship. The only problem with Neil is that he is a little lazy. But he wakes up to reality when the news of a tiger cub, having escaped from the reserve comes to light. His father helps the villainous poacher Gupta to hunt for the cub. Father hates this job, but does this as he is promised money that will help is son get a tutor. Neil and Rupa have a new mission: to find the tiger cub.



This enchanting book is about a boy's love for his hometown. It is a must-read. Perfectly phrased, you can feel Neil's excitement about his search for the cub. I recommend this book for ages 9 and above.

Movie Review

Ponniyan Selvam

The movie was very disappointing... was not up to the expectations and felt like a Bahubali rip-off. Actors were good but story line was BAD. It was a failed attempt to convert a book into a movie. It did not entertain the viewers. It was disastrous and is not a good watch.

Angoor

It is a Hindi film and one of the funniest I have ever watched. It is based on one of Shakespeare's play 'The Comedy of Errors'. The cast is amazing and I am sure all of you will enjoy watching it.

Gr 10 G

This is a Newberry Medal Winner book, based on a true story of a Native Indian woman called Juana Maria. It was published first in 1960.

On the Island of the Blue Dolphins, everyone is happy. But Karana, the daughter of Chief Chowig, lives in a hurl of grief and despair. The Aleuts, Russian fur trappers, cheated the people of the Ghalas-at. A battle reigns, and Karana's father, along with many others, die. The Aleuts escape.

One day, the new chief, Kimki, decides to go on a voyage to the 'White people', as the tribe will be safe there. After the tribe waits for a few suns, moons and summers, a white ship appears on the coast. They all board the ship, but before they set sail, Karana notices that Ramo, her younger brother, isn't aboard. Everyone tries to detain her, saying that the ship will come back and while he is waiting, there will be a lot of fresh food and safe spots for him to sleep. Karana, not heeding their cries, jumps overboard from the ship and swims ashore.

The next day, Karana finds Ramo dead with his throat torn out by the dogs surrounding him. Karana vows to kill the dogs, but soon discovers that the dog is indeed man's, but in this case woman's, best friend. Rontu, Karana's dog, and Karana herself, roam the island, free of all worries. Except one. Karana starts to wonder if the ship will ever really come.....

This story will dazzle you. No, not with the beautiful dolphins that cheerfully chirp and chitter. You will be dazzled by Karana's personality. I recommend this book to ages 10 and above. Plunge into a land of unfamiliar animals, beautiful birds, and adventure!

In conversation with Head, Examination & Assessments - Ms.Kavitha

♦ How long have you been working here
Since 2010 - Its been 12 long years

♦ What has your experience been like
I enjoyed teaching and spending time with students. I have been with the exam department for the last two years and have become more organized.

♦ Which do you prefer? Teaching or being the Head of the exam department?
It is definitely teaching, and interacting with students. I also handled the report card section before being part of the exam department. I was teaching math and computer science for senior school. I find more challenges working in the exam department and I have learnt a lot moreduring the last two years.

♦ Why did you choose to be a teacher?
I was always good with children and inspite of having an engineering degree felt more satistfied teaching computer science and math to students. At some point of time , I realised that teaching was my forte.

♦ Narrate an incident when you were a teacher?
Teacher - grade nine (9E) , when I started teaching them math, the class did not enjoy the subject but I slowly changed their attitude towards the subject. Those students are now in grade 12. They are all doing very well now and love the subject.

♦ Do you enjoy your job? What do you enjoy?
Yes, planning and communicating with everyone. I have become more responsible and accurate in my work. I have become more organized.

♦ What are your hobbies and how do you make time for them ?
I love cleaning around the house, watching movies and TV serials mostly thrillers. Right now I am watching 'The Blacklist'. I love spending time with my family.

APL is a school filled with enthusiasm! Best parts of APL are its sports facilities and cultural infrastructure. Moreover, APL provides a varied range of subjects for the senior school students. My son has been going to the school for the past 11 years and has barely led to disappointment! The teachers also are very reliable and help the students in every way. They also provide personalized learning.
